

Global Health Navigators: A New Component in a Refugee-Centered Medical Home Model of Care

Ruth M. Carrico, PhD, DNP, FNP-C¹

Affiliations: ¹University of Louisville Division of Infectious Diseases, Louisville

DOI: 10.18297/rgh/vol1/iss2/7

Website: <https://ir.library.louisville.edu/rgh>

Abstract

In this video, Dr. Ruth Carrico, Director of the Global Health Center Travel Clinic and Refugee Health Programs:

- Describes the University of Louisville refugee-centered medical home care model
 - Introduces a novel element, the Global Health Navigator, and their roles and responsibilities in the care of the refugee population
 - Reviews the competencies and training components important for this new role
 - Uses case scenarios to demonstrate the value of Global Health Navigators in refugee care
-

UofL Journal of Refugee and Global Health YouTube Channel

