

Clinical Research: From Idea to Publication

Julio A. Ramirez¹

Affiliations: ¹Division of Infectious Diseases, Department of Medicine, School of Medicine, University of Louisville, Louisville, KY 40202

DOI: 10.18297/jri/vol2/iss1/12

Abstract

Julio A. Ramirez, M.D., FACP, Professor of Medicine/Associate Professor of Microbiology and Immunology; Chief, Division of Infectious Diseases; Director, Infectious Diseases Fellowship Training Program and Founding Director, Global Health Initiative at The University of Louisville, presented "Clinical Research: From Idea to Publication" at University of Louisville Department of Medicine Grand Rounds on February 15, 2018. The talk focused on performing an overview of clinical study designs, describing the planning and performing of a clinical study, reviewing the process for statistical and clinical analysis, and presenting the structure of a Clinical Research Coordinating Center.

UofL Journal of Respiratory Infections YouTube Channel

Photo: Jason Puckett

Presented at the UofL Department of Medicine Grand Rounds, February 15, 2018